Genre: Jazz Louis Armstrong and his All-Stars are captured in rare form during these live recordings from 1956 and 1957, which are finally making their vinyl debut with this 180gram Pallas pressing. The album features a great collection of tunes which had become staples of Armstrong's live shows, including his perennial opener, "Indiana"; the crowd favorite, "Tiger Rag"; the always joyful, "When The Saints Go Marching In"; and the great title-track, "Basin Street Blues". Satch's frontline band at the time boasted the very distinctive sounds of trombonist Trummy Young and clarinetist Ed Hall.

"Basin Street Blues" - Louis Armstrong (voc, tp); Velma Middleton (voc); Billy Kyle (p); Trummy Young (tb); Squire Gersh, Dale Jones (b); Danny Barcelona, Barrett Deems (dr); a.o.
