"At The Rock House" is the first full length album by the great Roy Orbison, comprised of material recorded in 1956-57 and released by Sun Records in 1961 when he had already began his successful tenure with Monument Records. The record showcases the Big O's traditional early rockabilly/rock 'n' roll work with Sun and Sam Phillips and includes his impassioned takes on Johnny Cash's "You're My Baby", Conway Twitty's "Rock House" and Phillips' "Mean Little Mama" and "Problem Child". Previously out of press for over 25 years, it has now been remastered for a high quality numbered limited edition vinyl pressing of 3,000 colored copies from ORG Music.
